Dr. Conejo is the Clinical CAD/CAM Director at the Department of Preventive and Restorative Sciences, University of Pennsylvania School of Dental Medicine, Philadelphia PA, USA. He conducts research and has multiple publications in peer-reviewed scientific journals on CAD/CAM technology, prosthodontics and implant dentistry. Dr. Conejo has been the recipient of several awards in his field, to include the ICP Research Fellowship in Dental Restorative Materials in 2016 and has lectured in over 35 countries.

This 1-day course focuses on highly esthetic tooth and implant-supported restorations through the implementation of digital technologies. A detailed update on the latest materials, workflows and techniques will be presented. The main objective is to show how treatment time optimization and better clinical outcomes are possible with the implementation of digital tools from the diagnostic phase through facially driven mock-ups and 3D printing alternatives. To update participants in the new methods to elaborate long-term provisional restorations and their respective polishing protocols for optimal esthetics and soft tissue response. And to review step-by-step clinical protocols for tooth preparations and bonding optimization of full-ceramic CAD/CAM restorations with evidence-based concepts.

Objectives:

- Inform participants about the benefits of intraoral scanning/digital wax ups for esthetic cases through high-end mock-ups.
- Explain the differences between new ceramic and zirconia materials available.
- Review adhesive cementation protocols to different substrates.
- Improve esthetic results with tooth and implant-supported restorations.
